Hockey Dad Misinterpreted The Meaning of ‘the Red Line’

A man in Winthrop, Mass., accused of aiming a laser pointer into the eyes of the opposing goalie at his daughter’s high school hockey game is facing criminal charges. Police say 42-year-old Joseph Cordes pointed the light at the Medway/Ashland goalie during a Feb. 29 tournament. He was ordered out of the arena. Cordes says he feels “like a complete jerk” and humiliated his daughter. (AP)

South a Tough Sell for Romney

GOP candidate faces skepticism ahead of Ala., Miss. primaries

Jackson, Miss.

Mitt Romney faces a tough sell in the Deep South. With the Mississippi and Alabama primaries coming up next Tuesday, there's concern that he's too slick, not really a conservative. In a region where the evangelical vote is important, some are skeptical about his Mormon faith.

The number of delegates up for grabs in next week's GOP primaries in Alabama and Mississippi.

But if Romney wins the Republican nomination and it's a November choice between him and Democratic President Obama, the former Massachusetts governor may be just good enough for some Southerners.

"If push comes to shove and he gets the nomination, I'll go in the voting booth like this and vote for him," says Mississippi retiree

David Wilke, holding his nose.

Former House speaker Newt Gingrich, who represented Georgia for 20 years and now lives in Virginia, needs to win every state from South Carolina to Texas to get to the convention this summer, Gingrich spokesman R.C. Hammond says.

Former Pennsylvania senator Rick Santorum's staff says he'll be aggressive in states where Gingrich expects to perform well.

Gingrich scored an early primary victory in South Carolina and won this week in Georgia. Romney added a Virginia win this week — Gingrich and Santorum weren't on the ballot — to his Jan. 31 win in Florida, which is culturally not entirely a Southern state, despite its geography. Santorum won Tennessee.

After Mississippi and Alabama next week, Louisiana votes March 24; North Carolina and Texas May 8; Arkansas May 22; and Texas May 29. EMILY WAGSTER PETTUS (AP)

Pittsburgh

Gunfire at the Western Psychiatric Institute and Clinic at the University of Pittsburgh killed two people and hurt seven others Thursday, the university's medical center said.

Police reported one of the dead was the gunman, said University of Pittsburgh Medical Center spokesman Paul Wood. It was unclear whether the wounded people were patients, employees or visiting family members, Wood said.

A SWAT team was on the scene shortly after the shooting. There were no details about the second dead person. All seven of those injured in the shooting are expected to survive. (AP)

The abandoned school bus in Splendora, Texas, had no engine and no front wheels. But there were crude curtains in the windows, an air conditioner and even bunk beds.

So when postal worker Vanessa Picazo peered inside Wednesday, it became clear that two children had been living for more than two months in the dilapidated vehicle at the end of a road.

The children, siblings ages 5 to 11, were swiftly placed in foster care while authorities investigate. They were staying in the bus with an aunt after their parents were convicted of embezzling money from Hurricane Ike victims in 2008. The kids were not enrolled in school.

Deputy oil minister urges colleagues to jump 'sinking ship'

Beirut

Syria's deputy oil minister defected and posted his parting words to President Bashar Assad in a video on YouTube Thursday, calling the regime criminal and urging his colleagues to also abandon the "sinking ship."

Abdo Husameddine's defection came at the height of international pressure against Assad's regime as it tries to suppress an uprising now morphing into an armed insurgen-

"I don't wish to end my life servicing the crimes of this regime. This is why I have chosen to join the voice of righteousness."

cy, with the U.S. considering options for military intervention.

The deputy minister is the highest-ranking civilian official to abandon the regime since the revolt against Assad's iron-fisted rule began a year ago.

"I declare that I am joining the revolution of the dignified people," Husameddine said in the video.

It was not clear when or where the video was made, and he did not disclose his current location.

There was no comment from the regime in Damascus.

Husameddine identified himself as an engineer and assistant to the oil minister. He said he was a member of the ruling Baath Party, but was now quitting, and added he had served 33 years in various government positions. Cabinet ministers in Syria may have several assistants known as deputies.

Assad's regime has suffered a steady stream of army defectors, who have joined a group of dissidents known as the Free Syrian Army, now numbering in the thousands. But civilian government officials have remained largely loyal. That made Husameddine's defection all the more rare. (AP)

An Internet Star Is Born

As a video about a warlord goes viral, the film's creators take heat

Kampala, Uganda

If Joseph Kony lived in relative anonymity before this week, he's an Internet star now.

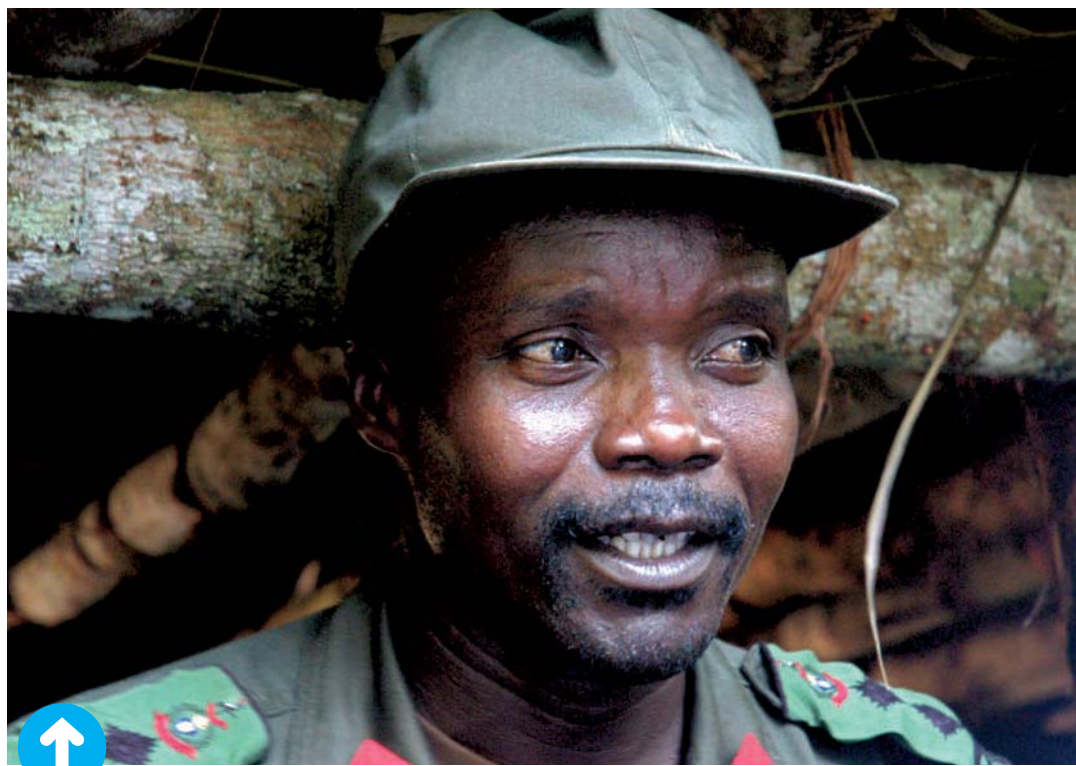

A video about the atrocities carried out by Kony's Lord's Resistance Army has gone viral, racking up millions more views seemingly by the hour.

The marketing campaign is an effort by the advocacy group Invisible Children to vastly increase awareness about a jungle militia leader who is wanted by the International Criminal Court for atrocities and is being hunted by 100 U.S. Special Forces advisers and local troops in four Central African countries.

The group's 30-minute video, which was released Monday, had more than 32 million views on YouTube by Thursday. The movie is part of an effort called KONY 2012 that targets Kony and the LRA.

"Kony is a monster. He deserves to be prosecuted and hanged," said Col. Felix Kulayigye, the spokesman for Uganda's military.

But Kulayigye said that Kony's forces — once thousands strong — have been so degraded that he no longer considers Kony a threat to the region. Because of the intensified hunt for Kony, his forces split into smaller groups that can travel the jungle more easily.

Who is Kony?

Joseph Kony is a bush fighter wanted by the International Criminal Court for crimes against humanity. Kony's Ugandan rebel group is blamed for tens of thousands of mutilations and killings over the last 26 years. The militia abducts children, forcing them to serve as soldiers or sex slaves, and even to kill their parents or each other to survive. In 2008, he refused to sign the final peace agreement mediated by South Sudan, saying he could not guarantee his security once he left the bush. (AP)

The Lord's Resistance Army is blamed for tens of thousands of deaths in the last 26 years.

Top Search

Uganda, Invisible Children and #stopkony were among the top 10 trending terms on Twitter for both the worldwide and the U.S. audiences on Wednesday night, ranking higher than New iPad or Peyton Manning. (AP)

Experts estimate that the LRA now has only about 250 fighters. Still, the militia abducts children, forcing them to serve as soldiers or sex slaves, and even to kill their parents or each other to survive. The LRA now operates in Congo, the Central African Republic and South Sudan.

The burst of attention has also brought with it some criticism on websites of Invisible Children's work, including the ratio of the group's spending on direct aid, its rating by the site Charity Navigator, and a 2008 photo of three Invisible Children members holding guns alongside troops from the country now known as South Sudan.

Invisible Children posted rebuttals to the criticism on its website, saying that it has spent about 80 percent of its funds on programs that further its mission; about 16 percent on administration and management; and about 3 percent on fundraising. The group said its accountability and transparency score is currently low because it has four independent voting members on its board of directors and not five, but that it is seeking to add a fifth. The group said the three workers in the photo thought it would be a good "joke" photo for family and friends. (AP)

"KONY IS DIFFICULT; HE IS NOT KILLING PEOPLE IN PARIS OR IN NEW YORK. KONY IS KILLING PEOPLE IN CENTRAL AFRICAN REPUBLIC; NO ONE CARES ABOUT HIM. THESE YOUNG PEOPLE FROM CALIFORNIA MOBILIZING THIS EFFORT IS INCREDIBLE, EXACTLY WHAT WE NEED."

An Unfair Fare

The way Metro fares are calculated is completely confusing — apparently, even to Metro. Proof comes courtesy of reader Wayde Minami, who commutes from Greenbelt to the Smithsonian stop. He got into the habit of taking a longer stroll to the train on his way home on nice days. So instead of riding the Orange or Blue line to L'Enfant Plaza, he'd walk there to get some exercise and avoid a transfer.

That's a win-win, right? Except that he noticed these trips of his ended up costing five cents extra. Let me repeat that: Metro charges him more to go a shorter distance. "I know it's just a nickel more in my case, but [it's] still annoying in principle," he told me.

When asked about it, WMATA spokeswoman Cathy Asato wrote in a response, "This appears to be an anomaly and has not been brought to our attention until now... Metrorail fares are based on composite miles, which is a calculation of track mileage and straight-line distance. Accordingly, the composite mileage for a station that is farther from a destination can reasonably have a smaller fare." Let me repeat that:

Metro can charge riders more to go a shorter distance.

I played around with the fare calculator and couldn't find another case in which a shorter trip to the same destination could cost more, but this is nuts.

And so are all of the other various charges that determine how much an individual trip costs. That's why the best news about the extensive fare changes proposed for 2013 is that the 20-cent peak-of-the-peak surcharge will disappear, along with a few other extras that lead to mathematical meltdowns. If everything goes as General Manager Richard Sarles hopes, the number of potential fare calculations will shrink from 44,000 to less than 15,000.

The proposed changes — a topic of heated community meetings over the past two weeks — would also increase rail fares across the board by an average of 5 percent. Weirdly, the maximum charge for my daily route, from Union Station to Farragut North, would actually get cheaper ($2.10 instead of $2.15). But when I'm traveling at off-peak hours, the price would go up from $1.60 to $1.70 (the new minimum charge).

There's a survey asking riders to weigh in on the proposal (see box below). But I think everyone can agree that the new fares should be fair. And that means fixing an anomaly that penalizes a rider for taking a shorter trip.

As for Minami, he's not letting himself be nicked-and-dimed. He's just walking one more stop up the Green Line to Archives. "So I'm getting a little more exercise than before without having to pay extra," he says.

Your 5 Cents Survey Says

To raise the extra $119 million necessary to keep Metro's operating budget balanced, someone has to pay. And that someone includes you. But you're invited to weigh in on the proposed changes, which include increasing bus fares by 10 cents; charging a flat fee of $4 or $6 for people using paper fare cards; and adding 25 cents to parking fees. A survey asking for your advice is available at Wmata.com/budget through March 21.

Metro to Close 2 Stations Over Weekend for Work

Metro says it will close two stations on the Red Line for weekend track work. Metro says that beginning Friday at 10 p.m. and continuing through Sunday, customers will have to take a free shuttle bus to travel between the Dupont Circle and Van Ness stations. The Woodley Park and Cleveland Park stations will be closed. Metro says customers using shuttle buses should add 20 minutes to their travel time. (AP)

Official: Faulty Brakes Ignored

Board member says Metro was aware of problems 6 years ago

Washington

The region's transit authority has known for six years that some of its rail cars have had brake parts that were failing sooner than expected, said Mort Downey, a Metro board member representing the federal government and head of the safety committee.

In January and December, brake parts fell from trains in two separate incidents and were examined for "hub failure."

On Thursday, Downey told The Washington Post "the good news is the old brake hubs on the 5000 series have been replaced." He said "the bad news" is Metro "knew about this six years ago and created a plan to fix it and never did it."

The authority "apparently put a fix into a planned overhaul of the wheels and motors but for financial reasons canceled it," he said. Downey said Metro "knew [the part was] failing ahead of expectations." He said they knew the part wasn't "lasting as long as it should and ought to be replaced." The part should have lasted 35 years, he said, but instead was lasting about 10 to 15 years.

Based on testing, "there was evidence they were not going to live up to their useful life," he said.

Meanwhile ...

The Foggy Bottom Metro station was closed temporarily after an incident in which a person was struck and killed by a train Thursday afternoon, transit officials said. The accident happened about 2:12 p.m., when a man apparently placed himself in front of an inbound Orange Line train, a Metro spokesman said. The incident occurred as a presentation on suicides in the transit system was being given to members of the Metro board Thursday. Metro said 200 train operators and station managers have been trained on suicide intervention. (TWP)

Va. Tech Admits Mistakes in '07 Campus Killings

Christiansburg, Va.

Virginia Tech officials have acknowledged during a trial that the school's initial timeline of the mass shooting had errors in it.

The timeline is at the heart of a wrongful death lawsuit that claims Virginia Tech administrators attempted to cover up their missteps after the 2007 shootings.

The lawsuit, brought by parents of two slain students, says if a specific warning had been issued earlier, some people might have survived the shooting spree by Seung-Hui Cho, who killed 32 people and then himself.

According to a timeline released by the university the night of the massacre, a school email only said a "shooting incident" had occurred and mentioned no search for a gunman. (AP)

Opening Statement

United aims to start the year by avenging last season's final loss

Major League Soccer

Four and a half months ago, D.C. United's 2011 season went up in smoke, with the final burn coming at the hands of Sporting Kansas City, 1-0 winners on an October night at RFK Stadium.

The new-and-improved United has a shot at symbolically turning the page Saturday night, when it opens its 2012 campaign against Sporting K.C. with bounding optimism and a sense that the bevy of off-season personnel moves has the club in position to contend for one of the five playoff berths in the balanced Eastern Conference.

"Expectations are always high here, even when we have a bad season the year before," D.C. coach Ben Olsen said. "The good part about D.C. United, and in particular our fans, is that they want to see success, so the expectations in my mind are always high. 'We want to make the playoffs and make a run at this thing. Do we have the team to do it? On paper it all looks good, but that's not where we play the game. We've got to get out there and prove that we're someone to deal with.'"

Sporting Kansas City was one of the bigger stories of the 2011 MLS season. The club emerged as a true power in a year during which it rebranded after axing the Kansas City Wizards name, built a spectacular new soccer-specific

The Likely Starters

D.C. United's starting lineup Saturday night against Sporting Kansas City should not contain any surprises. The only point of contention in the lineup is at centerback, where incumbents Dejan Jakovic and Brandon McDonald have competition in the form of Argentine veteran Emiliano Dudar. McDonald started each of the last two preseason matches, while Jakovic and Dudar each started one game beside him. With former University of Maryland standout Graham Zusi pulling the strings in the center of the formation, a three-pronged front line that can attack from all angles and the addition of one-time D.C. United star Bobby Convey, SKC provides a stiff challenge for opening night.

"They put a lot of pressure on you, so you have to move the ball quick and make your mind up and support each other and make sure there's options," Olsen said. "They do a good job of really pressing you, and they try to nick an early goal off a turnover. They've been together for a little bit now, so they're getting to that three-year cycle of the same guys being around, so that's a positive for them. I like my team right now, and I'm very excited for the challenge."

The key for D.C. will be finding a way to contain a front line that includes United States Under-23 national team striker Teal Bunbury; reigning MLS Rookie of the Year and Manassas, Va., native C.J. Sapong; and league veteran Kei Kamara.

"All three of them are very athletic, fast and strong on the ball," D.C. center back Dejan Jakovic said. "There's going to have to be a lot of good communication and just make sure we keep them in front of us. If we can do that, we should be fine." AVI CREDITOR

East (BOSTON)

1. Syracuse Balanced scoring, legitimate depth, size, shooters and that tricky 2-3 zone defense, what's not to love? (Other than their scandals).

2. Duke: Dynamic freshman Austin Rivers loves the spotlight, and now the scoring point guard gets his shot on the biggest stage.

3. Indiana: The only team to knock off Kentucky this season is the nation's second-most accurate squad from beyond the arc.

4. Wisconsin: The grinding Badgers allow the fewest points in the country.

Midwest (ST. LOUIS)

1. Kansas: Player of the Year candidate and D.C.-native Thomas Robinson, above, leads the perennial power.

Stoglin keys complete effort as Terps reach ACC quarterfinals

Terps Men's Hoops

As the ACC's leading scorer, Terrell Stoglin was miffed to be excluded from the all-ACC first team released by the conference's media this week.

Stoglin took advantage of his first postseason opportunity to show he ranks with the Atlantic Coast Conference's top players.

Stoglin scored 25 points, including nine straight in a decisive 20-4 run to open the second half, and Maryland ran past Wake Forest 82-60 on Thursday in the lopsided opening game of the ACC tournament. The sophomore guard added seven rebounds, four assists and two steals to his strong all-around game. It was his 21st game with 20 or more points this season.

"I'm always going to have a chip on my shoulder, but once the voting came out I had a bigger one," said Stoglin, who was an all-ACC second-team selection.

Stoglin said Maryland coach Mark Turgeon talked to him on the plane ride to Atlanta "about being a better teammate." He said that meant "just doing the little things that end up being big," including team defense and rebounding. "That's something I think I did today," Stoglin said.

Stoglin had plenty of help. Freshman Nick Faust had a career-high 19 points and James Padgett had 10 for Maryland, which led 79-50 before pulling its starters.

"That's the best, most complete game we've played all year," Turgeon said. (AP)

Wittman's Tough Task

Coach's discipline pays some dividends for the lowly Wizards

The Wizards

In his role as interim coach of the Wizards, Randy Wittman hasn't been afraid to push a few buttons. He's benched underachieving players, been unflinching in his assessment of others and shown that he won't put up with the sometimes illogical, style-over-substance play favored by the Wiz-

Season Highlight

However low in the standings the Wizards finish, they can take pride in Wednesday's 106-101 win over the Lakers.

At first, it seemed like another rout. Verizon Center fans were chanting "MVP" for Kobe Bryant as his Lakers built a 21-point lead. Then the Wizards stormed back. In the last minute, the same fans cheering for Bryant earlier screamed, "Beat L.A." (EXPRESS) ards' young guns.

"I'm just trying to teach," Wittman said. "You can call it whatever you want, but I'm trying to teach these guys how you have to play."

Wittman's approach has ruffled feathers and led to some uninspiring performances — see Monday's blowout by Golden State. At times, though, the Wizards actually play like a good team — evidenced by Wednesday's stunning comeback win over the Los Angeles Lakers.

Washington next hosts the Portland Trail Blazers on Saturday. The main figures in Wittman's scared-straight campaign are the enigmas that have driven Washington fans crazy for the past few years: JaVale McGee, Nick Young and Andray Blatche.

McGee's highlight-reel moves don't offset his inexplicable lapses of judgment, so it's no surprise he's found himself in Wittman's doghouse. Encapsulating the McGee experience is his answer when asked whether he understands Wittman's motivations: "I can't say I do, but I'm sure I'll figure it out sooner or later."

As for Young and Blatche — both of whom have seen their minutes reduced at times due to poor play, injury and ineffectiveness — the results have been mixed.

Young has provided a nice spark off the bench, where his volume shooting (and little else) can be contained, while Blatche has turned into an emotional wreck, visibly affected by the boos raining down from the Verizon Center rafters.

"This is a man's league," veteran Maurice Evans said. "Coach Witt calls it like he sees it, and he's trying to hold guys accountable. At some point, a player's desire has to outshine the coach's will for you. The coach can't want it more than the player does." ELLIOTT SMITH

Ty Pennington

DIY DUDE, CO-HOST OF "THE REVOLUTION"

Home redo guru Ty Pennington knows a thing or two about a good makeover. Since 2000, he has lent his carpentry skills and wisecracking demeanor to nest-redressing TV shows — first, TLC's "Trading Spaces" and later ABC's "Extreme Makeover: Home Edition." Now, Pennington is one of five hosts of ABC's daytime chat show, "The Revolution," which helps viewers make major changes via small steps. He'll share nest tips at the Washington Home & Garden Show at the Walter E. Washington Convention Center today through Sunday.

What do you see on the horizon for home decor?

I think you're definitely going to see a lot of repurposing — lots of reclaimed and recycled materials in cool pieces of furniture, lamps, you name it. Rustic, eclectic things from the past are definitely coming into your home. It's the same thing that's happening in fashion. You've got the throwback look with the cuffed jeans and a lot of the detailing and stitching.

Have you done any interesting DIY projects in your own home?

I designed and built all the furniture in my home. I always try and turn whatever found objects I have into something really cool. I've made coffee tables out of old and rustic champagne trays that have these interesting holes that let light through them.

What was it like to transition from "Extreme Home Makeover" to "The Revolution"?

With "Extreme," I've really gotten to see what change looks like. The thing about "The Revolution" is somebody can turn it on for a minute and learn something, whether it's a quick way to make a meal, or, for instance, we were just learning about urine the other day.

"I think you're ... going to see a lot of repurposing — lots of reclaimed and recycled materials."

Did you just say "urine"?

Urine: What does it say about you? And I'm, like, "Oh, my god, this is fantastic." Knowing that people at home are also learning, they're going to be able to make some changes in their life.

Are you getting any style tips from [co-host] Tim Gunn?

I think that Tim Gunn goes to bed in a three-piece suit! He's always dressed to the nines. He's been really great because I think he and I are sort of opposites in the sense that he's — let's just say — military fold, if you will, and I'm a little bit more casual. What I love about him is his sense of humor and his dry wit. It's great, too, when he helps me out with a project. Just seeing him with any type of tool in his hand — he just looks completely out of place.

Have you imparted any home tips to him?

Oh, yeah. He already tried something out. To get water stains off a table, you can use just an iron and a towel, or — believe it or not — something as simple as mayonnaise can work wonders. He went home and tried it, and it actually worked. KATIE ABERBACH (EXPRESS)

ANSWERS FROM THE SHOE BLOGGER

Manolo says, oh, how the Manolo loves the life passages! The weddings and births, the festivals and celebrations, even the funerals, as sad as they always are. But above all, the Manolo is especially fond of any event that requires the little children to dress up in finery. It is so wonderfully and warmly satisfying to see children included in our ceremonial life, or, even better, to see them be the center of our ceremonies!

Of the course, when preparing for any ceremony, one must be careful that the preparations and accoutrements not overshadow the solemn joy of the event itself. How often have the modern weddings, bar mitzvahs, quinceañeras and sweet 16 parties become grotesque festivals of conspicuous display, robbing such important ceremonies of true meaning? Yes, strangely, live giraffes, private Justin Bieber concerts and dresses with 40-foot-long crystal trains are not conducive to heartfelt emotion.

Thankfully, the Manolo has never attended the confirmation ceremony that has gotten this out of hand. Perhaps the Manolo just does not socialize with the right crowds.

Here is the Savy from the Vera Wang Lavender Label ($298, Zappos.com), the properly vernal celebratory pump.

Sleeping Beauties

Bed down in style via hip duvets, posh pillows and more

For a few years now, the image of a perfectly dressed bed has come straight from a luxury hotel. Picture a sleek sleep zone done up in crisp white sheets, with a streamlined white duvet neatly folded at the bottom. A blanket or a couple of artfully placed throw pillows provide a pop of color.

It's all very chic, of course. But an all-white world for catching winks isn't the only option for those who want to slumber in style.

"Hotels helped people understand luxury and that there is better quality bedding and different layering techniques" says Keith Hagood, president/general manager of e-tailer the Company Store (Thecompanystore.com).

Now nesters can take what they've learned on vacation (or from streaming HGTV), and add their own twist, whether it's a batik quilt or sheets in punchy orange. "Don't limit yourself," says Lauren Liess, owner of Herndon, Va.'s Lauren Liess Interiors (Thepurestyle.com). "If it's a color you love, go for it."

But to save your boudoir from resembling a circus tent, keep large components neutral, aka white, taupe or even gray. "Gray is the new tan," says Jonathan Pierce, a Nashville, Tenn., designer and star of HGTV's new "Interiors, Inc.," (Sat., 9:30 p.m.). "It's warm and wears better than white."

A neutral base offers the flexibility to add seasonal accents or simply change things out when you get bored. "In fall and winter, use pillows with texture — fur, suede, damask," Pierce says. "Then for spring and summer, take it lighter with linen or floral pillows."

Prints can help add interest, but attempting to combine two or more might result in a monstrous mash-up. "With patterns, the important thing is that the scales are varied," Liess says. "If your quilt has a big print, make sure your sheets are striped or have a smaller print."

For Hagood, nature-inspired prints are big right now, such as from leaves, branches and flowers like mums. Anthropologie is excit-

Dwell Studio's bold Peacock Citrine duvet set ($280-$320, 113 S. Columbus St., Alexandria; 703-838-0355, Dwellstudio.com) plays well with neutral sheets.

Viesso pillowcases ($135 per pair), vintage Hill Tribe textile/linen pillows ($245-$275), Grande Hotel Sheets ($277 per set) and a matelasse queen spread ($245, all Timothy Paul).

To avoid a bed-in-a-bag vibe, mix pieces from different retailers or collections. "It gives it an eclectic look," says Aimee Wedlake Lange, owner of Valerianne (111 Church St. NW, Suite 201; Vienna; 703-242-1790). Her shop carries nearly 20 brands like John Robshaw and Anichini. You'll find a similarly eclectic, luxe selection but with a decidedly exotic bent at Timothy Paul Bedding + Home (1529 14th St. NW; 202-234-2020).

Still, less is more now, whether you're talking bed skirts (think tailored, not frilly) or pillows. "You don't want it to take 20 minutes to undo your bed to get into it," Hagood says. So limit your decorative poufs to just a few. Or lay a body pillow covered in a cool pattern horizontally across the bed.

Just as with clothing, a layered look often proves the most versatile approach. "We make a lot of our beds with a coverlet and duvet folded at the foot," Lange says. "That gives customers a couple of ways to sleep. In the summer, they can sleep with just the sheets and coverlet. If they need more warmth, they can pull up the duvet."

When choosing bedding, quality matters. "Buy the best you can afford," Liess says. "You will regret buying cheaper bedding."

"The main thing to look for is a natural fiber content," Lange says. "It's going to last longer if you get 100 percent cotton versus poly-

ter. Cotton breathes better."

A basic duvet makes for a good investment piece and lets you play with colors and patterns through duvet covers. "A lot of duvet covers are reversible, so you get two looks in one," Hagood says. "And they take up almost no space in the linen closet."

Whether you opt for a funky print or a soothing solid, your bedding should make you excited about calling it a night. "You spend a lot of time sleeping," says Sotz. "So you should go to bed in a space where you feel really comfortable. At the end of the day, it has to feel good." Then, sweet dreams will surely follow. BETH LUBERECKI down

The light, fluffy undercoating that geese, ducks and other waterfowl have to keep them warm, down has a 3-D structure that allows for thousands of air pockets, which trap warmth and make it a good insulator.

duvet

A duvet is a down-filled quilt. A duvet cover is the often-decorative wrapper that goes over the duvet like a giant pillowcase.

euro pillow/sham

This large bed pillow and its cover, which measures 26 inches by 26 inches, is typically put against the headboard.

fill power/loft

The number of cubic inches 1 ounce of down will fill under specific conditions of temperature, humidity and load. Fill power or loft ranges from 300 (for a lower-quality down) to 800 (the highest quality). The larger and more mature the bird, the larger the down clusters and the higher the loft will be.

This French term refers to quilted textiles that appear padded but aren't. The fabric is tightly stitched, quilted or woven on a jacquard loom to create a raised design on the fabric.

Percal sheets are plain in weave and characterized by a matte finish and crisp feel. The weave feels cool to the touch and is lightweight and breathable.

thread count

The number of yarns per square inch in a fabric, thread count is a technical count of the warp and weft of the fabric. The higher the thread count, the finer the yarns, but this doesn't always mean that sheets with a high thread count are more luxurious or softer. B.L.

Moore and Less

In "Shakespeare in Love," Judi Dench needed only eight minutes of screen time to create a nuanced, powerful character and give a performance that would win her an Oscar. Small parts can make a movie,

By Kristen Page-Kirby

as Julianne Moore reminds us in "Being Flynn," out Friday. Moore plays Jody, a single mom who works two jobs — three, if you count raising a son who still holds out a glimmer of hope that his deadbeat father (Robert De Niro) will visit him. Moore's in maybe five scenes, none longer than five minutes, but her presence (and her absence) echoes throughout the movie. When she's with Nick, her son, she's warm and honest and smiling, even when she's clearly exhausted. When she's alone — which she is only once, if memory serves — we can see what happens to a woman who cheerfully gives when she has nothing left.

Motherhood in popular culture is often reduced to either June Cleaver or Joan Crawford, but Moore hits the mark here as a woman who recognizes that perfection isn't possible yet still straps on a baseball glove after a long day at work to get a few throws in with her boy. I don't think Moore will take home an Oscar for "Being Flynn," but she should get recognized for this small performance that makes a large impact.

"Game Change" focuses on the juiciest details of the 2008 bid by John McCain and Sarah Palin (Julianne Moore, center) for the White House.

Sympathy for Sarah

Depending on your vantage point, HBO's 'Game Change' might make you pity Palin

TelevisionSAT 9:00

What if we told you that "Game Change," the acrimoniously anticipated HBO movie airing Saturday night, might make you feel sorry for Sarah Palin?

Weird, right? The movie seems to want you to realize that there's a human being there, someone who could use a break from the scorn and expectation heaped upon her. In fact, all the major players in "Game Change" could have done a lot worse when it comes to being depicted by Hollywood: Sen. John McCain; his 2008 campaign staff; the election industry; the voracious media; the Palin clan. Nobody comes off looking so great, but there are also no real monsters.

Instead, the film's most scathing indictment is a symbolic one: It attacks our mutual inability to communicate.

Nevertheless, "Game Change," an adaptation of some of the juiciest chapters from Mark Halperin and John Heilemann's behind-the-scenes best-seller about the uglier and more desperate moments of the '08 election, makes for a good movie. It's a lot better than the network's numbingly rote "Too Big to Fail" last year and almost as good as the gripping "Recount," the 2008 HBO movie about the 2000 election.

To answer the question everyone is asking: It takes no more than 40 seconds to accustom yourself to Julianne Moore's eerily perfect take on Palin. Despite initial misgivings when the first photos came out of Moore done up in Palin's hairdo and specs, "Game Change" ranks among her finest performances.

Moore doesn't carry the film all on her own. Woody Harrelson

MarketingThe Other Side

The ReelzChannel TV network says it scheduled a pro-Sarah Palin documentary on the same weekend as "Game Change" for business considerations, not political ones. "The Undeclared," a Palin documentary by filmmaker Stephen K. Bannon, will have its television premiere Sunday at 8 p.m., 23 hours after "Game Change" debuts. (AP) is steely good as Steve Schmidt, McCain's senior campaign strategist, a resolute hardhead who finds himself coping with the meltdowns around him. Ed Harris makes for an uneven McCain, lapsing in and out of character. Sarah Paulson is only OK as Nicolle Wallace, the senior campaign adviser upon whom falls the frustrating task of bringing Palin up to speed.

Like its star character, the movie can be interpreted a number of ways, depending on your vantage point. If you are eternally baffled by Palin's rise, then please enjoy the horror flick. If you harbor sympathy for someone who was plucked from near-obscurity and thrust into an impossible 11-week frenzy far beyond her skills or education, then it's a psychological thriller. If you're just a politics wonk, then it's basically porn.

Don't try to decipher 'John Carter' — it's not worth your time

Film Review

"John Carter" is being hyped as the first blockbuster of the year, but it's really the first big flop.

What's "John Carter" about? That's not a rhetorical question: Seriously, what the heck is going on in this movie? Based on Edgar Rice Burroughs' story "A Princess of Mars," this adaptation gets off to such an incoherent start that it takes almost the entire two-hour-plus running time to catch up. Narratively stilted, visually ugly and imaginatively bankrupt, "John Carter" just sits there, forcing the audience to sit right along with it.

But, OK, if it's a synopsis you want: "John Carter" is nominally about a Civil War veteran (Taylor Kitsch) who, while searching for Taylor Kitsch, center, plays the titular John Carter, a Civil War veteran who winds up on Mars with a princess (Lynn Collins, left) and tall, skinny, four-armed creatures.

John Carter (PG-13)

- Director: Andrew Stanton
- Stars: Taylor Kitsch, Lynn Collins, Willem Dafoe
- In a Nutshell: Transplanted to Mars, a Civil War veteran discovers a lush planet inhabited by 12-foot-tall barbarians. Finding himself a prisoner, he escapes, only to encounter a princess who is in need of a savior.

gold, happens upon a dingus that transports him to Mars, where he is taken prisoner by tall, skinny four-armed creatures and meets a beautiful princess (Lynn Collins).

At least that seems to be what's going on in "John Carter," which was adapted for 3-D presentation after it was filmed, resulting in images as murky and difficult to decipher as the story itself.

'Silent House': Fear of the Mind

Film Review

Likely to disappoint fans of old-school bogeymen and aficionados of jokily self-referential meta-horror, "Silent House" might just find an audience that is able to appreciate it for what it is: a scary yet thoughtful — even deep — art-house fright fest.

The question is this: Do the words "deep" and "fright fest" even belong in the same sentence?

The other question is this: Do you find a hyperventilating, helpless young woman trapped in a secluded house with a possibly homicidal stalker terrifying or annoying?

Yes, it has one of those hyperven-

Elizabeth Olsen plays a hyperventilating, helpless woman in "Silent House."

tilators. In that sense, "Silent House" is as hackneyed as they come.

But the similarities with such films as "Halloween" end there.

Silent House (R)

- Directors: Chris Kentis, Laura Lau
- Stars: Elizabeth Olsen, Adam Trese, Eric Sheffer Stevens
- In a Nutshell: Trapped inside her family's lakeside retreat, a young woman is unable to contact the outside world as events become increasingly ominous in the house.

That's because the young woman, Sarah, played by Elizabeth Olsen, her stalker and even the "house" of the title are not what you think they are. That's because of a twist ending that will either satisfy you deeply or tick you off royally.

"Silent House" will make you jump, to be sure, and your heart will beat a little bit faster. But what's truly scariest about it takes place not in the body, but in the mind.

"Dr. Seuss' The Lorax" isn't quite a faithful adaptation of the author's darkest book, but that didn't stop the film from making more than $70 million last weekend.

> Now Playing

ACT OF VALOR (R, 105 minutes) Military reality and video-game fantasy shake hands and come out fighting in this action flick that stars actual Navy SEALs. The exercises are genuine, and so is the hardware. But the script undermines the sense of authenticity at every turn.

In Costa Rica, a CIA agent is posing as a doctor while observing an international drug and arms smuggler. Her cover is blown, and she's captured and tortured. Soon, the SEAL team arrives for the rescue. Like most recent action movies, "Act of Valor" is fast, loud and strenuously over-edited. MARK JENKINS

THE ARTIST (PG-13, 100 minutes) Capping off a year of movies dedicated to high-style nostalgia, "The Artist" arrives like the last, lightest profiterole on the croquembouche. "The Artist" opens in 1927, when dapper Errol Flynn-esque film star George Valentin (Jean Dujardin) rules Hollywoodland as its reigning star, his million-dollar grin coming as easily as the waves of applause that predictably greet every one of his new pictures. When George crosses paths with an eager newcomer named Peppy Miller (Berenice Bejo), he's cast in the role of mentor (and maybe more). But when talking pictures become the order of the day, she quickly begins an ascent up stardom's ladder, while George's fortunes begin their inevitable slide. A.H.

DR. SEUSS' THE LORAX (PG, 86 minutes) Like "An Inconvenient Truth" for the 12-and-under crowd, "Dr. Seuss' The Lorax" is a cautionary environmental tale with a thin veneer of entertainment on top. Based on Seuss' 1971 picture book, this musical adaptation, in eye-popping 3-D CGI, is undeniably less gloomy than the original. In the hands of co-directors Chris Reynaud and Kyle Balda and co-writers Ken Daurio and Cinco Paul, Seuss' slender though eloquent fable has morphed into something unwieldy and manic. It's simultaneously silly and preachy, and with precious room for little fun. "Dr. Seuss' The Lorax" is a movie that progressives can feel good about taking their kids to, without actually having a good time. M.C.

JOURNEY 2: THE MYSTERIOUS ISLAND (PG, 94 minutes) Managing to make classic 19th-century adventure yarns feel as wondrous and exotic as a Hallmark Channel special, "Journey 2: The Mysterious Island" (starring Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson) sincerely tries to pay homage to the likes of Jules Verne and Robert Louis Stevenson but is too contaminated by today's tame sensibilities to make it fly. JOHN DEFORE

PROJECT X (R, 88 minutes) There are only two good jokes in "Project X," a thin, painfully overlong comedy about an out-of-control party thrown by a trio of high-school losers. One is the "story by" credit given to Michael Bacall. This is funny because there is, almost literally, no story. As for that second joke, it comes halfway into the movie when an adult neighbor attempts to shut down the party and ends up getting Tasered by a 12-year-old who has been hired as a bouncer. That's not the funny part — or, for anyone older than 21, the only truly satisfying moment in the film. That comes when the man gets up and clocks the snot-nosed brat in the face. M.O.

THIS MEANS WAR (PG-13, 96 minutes)

This romantic action comedy stars Reese Witherspoon as a woman trying to choose between two handsome suitors. But as this sloppy, scattered, utterly synthetic piece of Hollywood wifegery unspools, it becomes increasingly clear that the romantic tension at play exists mostly between the men in question, played by Chris Pine and Tom Hardy. The fact that "This Means War" is as graceless, lazy and visually incoherent as it is can be laid squarely at the feet of its director, McG. His career at least provides a valuable reminder that the word "hack" didn't always refer to computer monkey-wrenchers. A.H.

WANDERLUST (R, 98 minutes) Paul Rudd delivers moments of inspired lunacy in this shambling mix of cheap laughs and genuinely funny set pieces from writer-director David Wain. Rudd plays George, a Manhattan corporate drone who, as "Wanderlust" opens, is buying a West Village apartment with his wife, Linda (Jennifer Aniston). When George loses his job and Linda's documentary isn't picked up by HBO, they're forced to sell and move to sponge off George's obnoxious brother. On the way, they stop at Elysium, a rustic colony of dropouts and groovers. A.H. WE NEED TO TALK ABOUT KEVIN (R, 112 minutes) Haunted, penitent and nearly incapacitated by guilt and grief through much of the movie, Tilda Swinton's Eva counts as one of the most potent physical performances on-screen this season. When Eva and her husband, Franklin, welcome a son into the world, they do their best to create the kind of cozy cocoon their fellow Manhattanites confect within their monuments to narcissism and ambition. But from the start, Kevin seems to see right through their conceits, refusing to play along. A.H.

TV weekend lookoutThe Real World: Persia

'Shahs of Sunset' is to Iran as 'Jersey Shore' is to Italy

Reality

SUN 10:00 A week dominated by a political debate over clamor or for war with Iran concludes with Bravo's "Shahs of Sunset," a reality-TV look at young Persians living large in Los Angeles. Or, as one calls it, "Tehrangelles."

In the tradition of "Real Housewives" and "Jersey Shore," "Shahs" doesn't so much take an anthropological look at its subjects as let vulgar stereotypes run wild in revealing, often-pathetic ways.

We're told that the Persian community includes doctors, lawyers and entrepreneurs, but the characters on "Shahs" consist of real estate-brokering men and marginally employed women all endowed with a remarkable sense of entitlement and materialism.

MJ, a strenuously single woman, works in real estate with Reza, who struggles with his identity as an openly gay Persian male. But this is merely a speed bump on his super-highway of self-regard. Asa fancies herself a singer and a bohemian, and decries the less-than "soulful" life of her contemporaries.

At a time when insight into Iran, its people and its exiles might be welcome, Bravo simply offers more of the same. (UNIVERSAL UCLICK)

DocumentaryA Long, Dark 'Row'

The words "haunting," "thoughtful," "strange" and "compelling" don't begin to describe "On Death Row" (Fri., 10 p.m., ID), a new four-part series from director Werner Herzog, above. "Row" dispenses with the melodrama of most true-crime series and the longing for vengeance that permeates stories about capital crimes. Instead, Herzog describes the horrors in calm, conversational tones and conducts carefully modulated interviews with hardened killers. (UU)

Best Bets

FRI 9:00

The Ultimate Fighter Live (FX) UFC's mixed martial arts reality series moves to FX for Season 15 with a new format. Episodes will now be shot and edited the week they are aired, and each will include a live elimination fight.

SUN 8:30

Bob's Burgers (FOX) The cult animated comedy about a man, his family and their burger joint is back for a second season. In Season 2, Bob and family test-drive the food truck industry, dive into the world of synchronized swimming, search for treasure in an abandoned taffy factory and get tied up with a needy bank robber.

SUN 9:00

Shameless (SHO) Frank is eager to retrieve what's left of Grammy's money but is in no hurry to pick up her ashes from the city morgue. Monica returns and resumes partying with Frank, but the kids don't expect her to stay long.

SUN 10:00

Restaurant Stakeout (FOOD)

Aided by hidden camera and covert surveillance, New York restaurateur Willie Degel, left, uses his tough-love, take-no-prisoners approach to help struggling restaurant owners see what really happens when their employees think nobody is watching. Then it's up to Willie to shape them up. (TRIBUNE MEDIA)

Blog Log

“It just sits there looking at the camera, being all sea ottery, and doesn’t make any sound and barely moves and the video ends. It is the greatest cinematic masterpiece of our or any other time. When sloths and otters have their final battle to determine which is cuter, it’s gonna be a SLOTTER.”

— DAN HOPPER AT BESTWEEKEVER.TV is obsessed with a YouTube video released two weeks ago called “A Day in the Life of Shedd’s Sea Otter Pup: Grooming.”

“Let’s see what the young lady can do. If Morlan Isom has the skills, she’ll find a spot on the field. My only advice to her — hold nothing back.”

— COMMENTER JD DICKSTEIN AT USATODAY.COM think that Isom, the former LSU soccer player and homecoming queen looking to make the LSU football team as a kicker, deserves as much of a chance as anyone else for a roster spot.

“For me, it’s about the nostalgia. If you grew up in places where Olive Garden and Red Lobster really were the best restaurants in town, you can’t help but feel a warm twinge of homesickness reading this. It’s not judgement. I can’t judge. I chose to go to Applebee’s for my fancy high school graduation dinner.”

— MAGGIE KOERTH-BAKER AT BOINGBOING.NET appreciates the work of Marilyn Hagerty, a food columnist at the Grand Forks Herald in North Dakota. Hagerty wrote about the arrival of an Olive Garden in town Wednesday and has been widely mocked in the blogosphere since.

“Before you throw your iPad 2 out the window, you should know one thing about the mobile information superhighway: Life in the fast lane ain’t cheap. With an advertised top download speed of up to 73 megabits per second, the top-of-the-line iPad could theoretically burn through a basic 2-gigabyte-per-month data plan in about four minutes.”

— WILL OREMUS AT SLATE.COM offers a piece of advice ahead of the release of the new iPad — which features 4G LTE technology — in stores.

“Yikes. The clothes were bad, but even worse was the makeup: smeared mascara as if the models had been crying. Cool move, Kanye! Plus: I think he stole everything from the Abominable Snowman, anyway.”

— WHITNEY JEFFERSON AT BUZZFEED.COM thought the rapper’s runway show for his women’s clothing line at Paris Fashion Week was a disaster.

Horoscope

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) You may have to work hard to wrest information from someone who is loath to give it. You have more than one reason to uncover this truth.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're going to have to follow the instructions you are given today, no matter how it may make you feel.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You'll have the good sense to realize that even when it appears you have no choice, a choice will surely present itself — and it will do so soon.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're trying to second-guess someone who is more immersed in the situation at hand than you are. He or she doesn't need you to intrude.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A judgment call early in the day has you doing or saying things that only you know how to do or say. Your instincts are right on the money.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It's important for you to know when to speak, and when to listen. Someone needs you to point out his or her inappropriate behavior.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You needn't feel bad for feeling the way you do today; it's what you do as a result that really counts.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) What presents itself to you today is merely a matter of probability — and there's nothing you can do to avoid it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) A good friend is likely to come through for you today when you share your needs openly. He or she has just the ticket.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Just when you think you've discovered enough about a previously mysterious situation, the facts just keep rolling in.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) An end of an era needn't be traumatic for you, since you are prepared to move forward in an exciting new way very soon.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You must be ready to face something unpleasant today before the clouds break and the sun shines in as you have been hoping.

The original American Idol, Kelly Clarkson, will be a mentor on "Duets," a new ABC vocal competition show, Usmagazine.com reported. The series pairs celebrity mentors and wannabes, who perform together in each episode. Lionel Richie and Robin Thicke will also be mentors. (EXPRESS)

GOOD WORKSChely Wright Opens a GLBT Community Center

LIKEME Organization, a nonprofit group founded by country musician Chely Wright, is opening a community center in Kansas City, Mo., this weekend that will serve gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender people, and their families and friends. The location was chosen, in part, because Wright grew up 40 miles away. (AP)

"One of the greatest things I heard someone say about [Fred Armisen] is, 'He's so great at doing impersonations. But the greatest impersonation he does is that of a normal person.' To me, that sums it up."
